Mission

Con Alma Health Foundation is organized to be aware of and respond to the health rights and needs of the culturally and demographically diverse peoples and communities of New Mexico. Con Alma seeks to improve the health status and access to health care services for all New Mexicans and advocates for a health policy that addresses the health needs of all New Mexicans. The Foundation makes grants, contributions, and program-related investments to fulfill its Mission.

Core Values

GUIDING CON ALMA HEALTH FOUNDATION ARE SIX CORE VALUES.

1. Improve the health status of all New Mexicans;
2. Maintain the public trust;
3. Involve, collaborate and partner with New Mexico communities;
4. Innovate and lead;
5. Teach and learn; and
6. Be an effective advocate for a health policy which supports the Foundation’s charitable Purpose & Mission.

History

In 2001, a group of health consumer advocates and policy makers were convened to decide how best to invest the proceeds of the sale of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Mexico, a not-for-profit corporation. State law required that its non-charitable assets of more than $20 million be set aside for a similar organization. That nonprofit organization became Con Alma Health Foundation, the largest foundation in New Mexico solely dedicated to health.

In May 2002, the Los Alamos Medical Center was sold by Banner Health Systems, a non-profit corporation, to Province HealthCare, a for-profit corporation. Some proceeds from the sale of Los Alamos Medical Center (LAMC) were preserved to serve the unmet healthcare needs of the people of Los Alamos, Rio Arriba and northern Santa Fe counties. The health care conversion proceeds established the Northern New Mexico Health Grant Group (NMMHGG), a joint initiative of Con Alma Health Foundation and the Los Alamos Medical Center Auxiliary.

For its 10th Anniversary in 2011, Con Alma Health Foundation will be celebrating the work of its more than 400 grantees and the investment of more than $10 million dollars to improve health in New Mexico.

CAHF’s assets go beyond the dollars with which it makes grants. The Foundation advocates for health policy and brings people and organizations together, acting as a catalyst for improving health, especially for the underserved.
This year’s annual report celebrates New Mexico Heroes of Health and their impact. Each year, Con Alma Health Foundation (CAHF) recognizes individuals who work to improve health in New Mexico. Dr. Mario Pacheco, our top honoree last year, reminded us in a video interview that heroic efforts are not singular acts made by one person acting alone. Instead, they are collective acts made by many people moving in a common rhythm. When drastic budget cuts terminated funding for health councils in New Mexico last year, representatives from counties and tribal entities around the state, met during a health council convening and began working on a statewide alliance of health councils, demonstrating how the collective acts of a group of people make a difference.

Heroism is a lifetime voluntary process. When we focus on the heroic deeds of one person, we are really focusing on the many people they helped and the people who joined in helping them. The thousands of people who volunteer their time and talent are the real heroes among us. They are the heart and soul of real life heroism. Their lives are not often glamorous, and there is no discrete beginning or end to their work.

In this annual report, we have chosen to spotlight two real life heroes whose work demonstrates collective impact, people who have profoundly impacted not only Con Alma Health Foundation, but many other organizations as well.

Last year, New Mexico lost a lifelong health advocate in Bud Mulcock, a hero who served on the CAHF Board of Trustees. He will always be remembered for his sense of humor, his tenure at PNM, his lobbying efforts on behalf of school districts and the New Mexico Activities Association. Bud was a stalwart member of the CAHF Finance, Audit and Executive Committees, during each of the two full terms he served as a Board member.

Mike and Mary Anaya are also exceptional heroes. Few families in New Mexico have had more impact on the state than the Anayas. Their financial generosity over the years for worthy causes has been unsurpassed. In 2010, Con Alma Health Foundation nominated the Anaya Family for the Outstanding Family in Philanthropy award, an honor that was ultimately bestowed upon them. Mike and Mary Anaya and Bud Mulcock represent heroes who follow their dreams and then work with others to make those dreams come true.

In addition to the specific individuals referenced above, there are many unsung heroes, too numerous to list here, but include grantees, volunteer Board members, Community Advisory Committee (CAC) members, and staff at hundreds of organizations that contribute their time and talent for the benefit of the people and communities of New Mexico.

Con Alma Health Foundation will be recognizing some of these heroes at its 10th Anniversary and Grantee Recognition Reception on Friday, November 18, 2011. We are accepting nominations for the 2011 New Mexico Heroes of Health Award, outstanding individuals who will be honored at the 10th Anniversary Celebration. We encourage you to nominate a hero among us to receive a New Mexico Heroes of Health Award.

Sincerely,

PAMELYA HERNDON
President, Board of Trustees

DOLORES E. ROYBAL
Executive Director
Dr. Mario Pacheco

2010 NEW MEXICO HERO OF HEALTH

Mario F. Pacheco, M.D., is a Board Certified family physician. He is the founding director of the Northern New Mexico Family Practice Residency Program, a rural residency training track sponsored by the University of New Mexico (UNM) School of Medicine. He is also the first Associate Vice President for Hispanic Health at the University of New Mexico Health Sciences Center. His main professional interest is improving health services access for rural and uninsured families in New Mexico.

Bud Mulcock

Last year, New Mexico lost a lifelong advocate in Bud Mulcock, who served on CAHF’s Board of Trustees. Remembered for his sense of humor, Bud was instrumental on CAHF’s Finance, Audit and Executive Committees, serving two three-year terms. Born in Roswell and raised in Artesia, he spent nearly 20 years with the Public Service Company of New Mexico, where he was a vice president. A graduate of George Washington University and the University of New Mexico School of Law, Bud worked for Democratic U.S. Rep. E.S. Johnny Walker of New Mexico and was an assistant state attorney general. He also served as President of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce and after retirement he lobbied for the New Mexico Activities Association and the Coalition of School Administrators. Gov. Bill Richardson ordered flags lowered for Bud, whom he called “a good man with a long, positive history in New Mexico.”

This year, we’ve added QR Codes throughout the publication. These barcode-like graphics, readable by smartphones and iPod touches, will open related videos and website pages. 2010 Health Council Convening

When drastic budget cuts jeopardized health councils in New Mexico, representatives from counties and tribal entities around the state, met and began work on a statewide alliance of health councils. State funding for health councils was suspended July 2010. The NM Department of Health, New Mexico Association of Grantmakers, the New Mexico Public Health Association, and Con Alma Health Foundation partnered to support and coordinate the convening on September 16–17, 2010 at the Indian Pueblo Cultural Center.

Seventy participants representing 29 out of the 38 health councils in New Mexico (33 county-based plus 5 tribally based), funding sponsors, the New Mexico Department of Health (NM DOH), and other interested organizations met to explore strategies and models to support and sustain health councils in order to continue their important work on both a local and statewide basis.

Health councils have been primarily responsible for health planning, assessment and coordination at the local level. Health councils form the hub of local public health systems, working with local governments, health care providers, schools, nonprofit organizations, health advocates, and community members.

“Health councils assess local needs, identify gaps in services, develop community health plans and priorities, coordinate community health initiatives, and are instrumental in bringing additional financial resources to communities,” said Dolores E. Roybal, Con Alma Health Foundation’s Executive Director. “They are vital to a healthier New Mexico.”

The day began with an inspiring keynote address from Frances Varela who was instrumental in the initial passage of the Maternal Child Health Act in 1991 that provided funding for health councils from 1992–2010. She reminded everyone that funding will come and go, but the commitment and passion of people will continue to drive the movement for healthy communities.

“Over my 40 years, this I have noticed – things come and go in New Mexico unless they have been authentically grounded and anchored in the roots of local community efforts and ownership. Things that are top-down state-driven are very risky, because of changing priorities of the executive branch and the politics that drive it. I am not referring even to political parties here, because things will change no matter which party is in the Governor’s mansion in Santa Fe...I feel very strongly that we need the partnership of our state government and statewide organizational partners, but that the true strength and power to really change indicators of health in New Mexico originates from the soil of the local community work.”

Our thanks to all our health councils around the state for all that they do. Special thanks to our funding partners that helped make this convening possible. They are all our heroes. To learn more about the convening, go to conalma.org and click on Health Resources.
Mike and Mary Anaya

Few families in New Mexico have had more impact on the state than the Anayas. In 2010, Con Alma Health Foundation nominated the Anaya Family for National Philanthropy Day’s Outstanding Family in Philanthropy, and they received this top honor. Mike Anaya served on CAHF’s Board of Trustees from 2003–2009.

Growing up in Torrance County during the Great Depression, Mike Anaya remembers subsisting on beans. His dad was first a ranch hand then a dry land farmer, raising pinto beans, and eventually turned to construction, as they moved into town. Poverty was a fact of life. “Our theory has always been to try to leave things better for others and to help the less fortunate,” says Mike. “Mary and I grew up very poor, as did our families. It’s always a challenge to try and do things and improve the community so that others can have a better life.”

The commitment to helping others have a better life is one Mike and Mary have demonstrated throughout their lives. Here is a sampling:

MIKE ANAYA
- Domenici Legacy Committee at New Mexico State University, Member
- Con Alma Health Foundation, Board of Trustees, 2003–2009
- President, Central New Mexico Medical Center in Moriarty
- Founding Member of the Moriarty Chamber of Commerce
- Moriarty Rotary Club
- Moriarty City Council (1954–1974)

MARY ANAYA
- 4H volunteer
- Volunteer teacher for English as a Second Language
- Volunteer Spanish teacher

Our theory has always been to try to leave things better for others and to help the less fortunate.

Health Equity Report & Focus Groups

In 2010, CAHF began updating the 2006 Health Disparities report “Closing The Health Disparity Gap In New Mexico: A Roadmap for Grantmaking.” This report was used extensively to inform the Foundation of the current and future needs of the people, our grantmaking priorities and other initiatives. The updated report, to be released in 2011, focuses on health equity and includes information from community focus groups. CAHF conducted 15 focus groups around the state in urban and rural communities which also included three focus groups with Native Americans, African Americans and Hispanics/Latinos. The Foundation’s statewide Community Advisory Committee (CAC) was instrumental in coordinating and conducting the focus groups in their respective communities.

The report recognizes perceptions of community problems and priorities. However, the report and the focus group conversations focused primarily on solutions, as opposed to problems, and asked the question, “What do we want the future of health in New Mexico to look like?”

Oral Health Initiative

Often overlooked as a health access and disparity issue, oral health care is essential to overall health. Thousands of New Mexicans – many of them children – cannot get access to or must, in many cases, wait six months for needed dental care. Twenty-nine of our 33 counties do not have enough dentists to serve their communities, and six counties do not have any dentists at all.

In partnership with the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, Con Alma Health Foundation acted as a convener to explore the feasibility and public will to increase the dental workforce and possibly develop a mid-level oral health practitioner model in New Mexico.

Con Alma Health Foundation partnered with four statewide and community-based New Mexico nonprofit organizations:

1. Health Action New Mexico
2. New Mexico Health Resources
3. New Mexico Primary Care Association
4. New Mexico Voices for Children

In the latter part of 2010, Health Action New Mexico began spearheading advocacy for a dental therapist in New Mexico. For more information, contact Pamela K. Blackwell, JD, the project director of Oral Health Access, Health Action New Mexico, (505) 508-2768 or pamelakblackwell@gmail.com.

Or check out the Word of Mouth NM blog at http://wordofmouthnm.wordpress.com/
Northern NM Health Grant Group (NNMHGG) Technical Assistance

In 2010, the NNMHGG provided a free training opportunity for NNMHGG grantees (current/former/prospective) on “The Resilient Nonprofit.” The two workshops covered strategies to help nonprofits survive and thrive. Participants received two toolkits – a Strategic Planning Toolkit and a Communications Skills Toolkit. In addition to the workshops, custom coaching was provided to four selected nonprofits, Los Alamos Family Council, Los Alamos First Born, NM Suicide Intervention Project and Self Help, Inc.

Workforce Development

As a result of CAHF’s 2006 report, “Closing the Health Disparity Gap in New Mexico: A Roadmap for Grantmaking,” Con Alma Health Foundation has committed significant resources to addressing health workforce issues in New Mexico. The study revealed that New Mexico has the most significant shortage of health professionals in the nation in its rural, geographically remote Hispanic/Latino and Native American communities.

In 2010 CAHF released a study, “Building a 21st Century Health Care Workforce in a Diverse Rural State: A Funder’s Perspective & Evaluation Framework for Innovation & Impact of Health Career Pipeline Programs.” To read the report at conalma.org, click on Health Resources.

Health Care Reform

In late spring 2011, Con Alma received a six-month $300,000 strategic planning grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation to help guide New Mexico’s federal health care reform implementation for vulnerable children and families lacking health care access, coverage and quality of care. The community-based planning phase, entitled Blueprint for Health NM, is intended to create a non-biased, non-partisan and inclusive framework for implementing the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA) in New Mexico. Emphasis will be placed on improving health outcomes in four counties: Bernalillo, Doña Ana, McKinley, and San Juan. For more information, please contact Project Co-Directors, Roxane Spruce Bly at roxane.bly@gmail.com, (505) 239-0240 or Charlotte Roybal, charlotte@policyconnections.org, (505) 930-0563.

Hispanics in Philanthropy

Hispanics in Philanthropy, New Mexico (HIP NM) Funders’ Collaborative for Strong Latino Organizations, completed year three of a three-year grant cycle (phase 2) in 2010. Seven local funders contributed $250,000, matched by HIP national for a total of $500,000 for the three-year project period. A total of $160,000 was awarded to 14 Hispanic led or Hispanic serving nonprofits in New Mexico in 2010. Phase 3 of HIP NM will be implemented in 2011 for another three-year grant cycle. Con Alma Health Foundation serves as the anchor foundation for the funders’ collaborative.
