Since our beginning, Con Alma Health Foundation has worked to improve health in New Mexico. This year we are proud to lead an initiative that can help advance health equity, achieved when all individuals, regardless of their economic or social background, have the same access to quality, affordable health care and a chance at a better life.

With support from the Convergence Partnership of Tides Foundation, comprised of eight national and seven New Mexico funders, the Healthy People, Healthy Places initiative is based on a simple concept: Place matters. Where you live affects your ability to lead a healthy life.

To achieve that, we are providing grants and technical assistance to nonprofits that share our vision of changing policies and the environment to support healthy people and healthy places. We brought together partners across the state to identify and implement specific strategies that make it easier for people to get healthy food, be active, and live in safe communities. We support policies that help families make healthy choices while elders pass down their cultural and traditional practices.

We couldn’t work on this initiative or our other work improving health without the incredible partners we have across New Mexico. It takes all of us—nonprofits, businesses, government, and our Community Advisory Committee and Board of Trustee members and other funding and community partners—to make New Mexico’s communities healthy places for every person.

We continue to promote diversity among the state’s nurses, advocate for the growing aging population, and help implement health care reform. We remain dedicated to our mission of improving health by investing in children, families and communities, leveraging resources, supporting nonprofits and bringing people together to collaborate and develop solutions to health challenges in our state.

Mil gracias,

Erin Bouquin, MD
President, Board of Trustees

Executive Director, Con Alma Health Foundation
Mission
Con Alma Health Foundation is organized to be aware of and respond to the health rights and needs of the culturally and demographically diverse peoples and communities of New Mexico. Con Alma seeks to improve health status and access to health care services and advocates for health policies that address the health needs of all New Mexicans. The Foundation makes grants and contributions to fulfill its mission.

Con Alma Health Foundation’s work is guided by six core values:
• Improve the health status of all New Mexicans
• Maintain the public trust
• Involve, collaborate and partner with New Mexico communities
• Innovate and lead
• Teach and learn
• Be an effective advocate for a health policy which supports the Foundation’s charitable purpose and mission

Believing in the future
We believe everyone is entitled to a healthy life.
We believe communities should help define solutions because of the great diversity of our state.
We believe our assets are greater than our dollars and that Con Alma should be an advocate for sound health policy.
We respect the values and experience of all people and will honor those values in our policies, operations and grantmaking.

History
When Blue Cross Blue Shield New Mexico changed from a nonprofit to a for-profit business, state law required that its non-charitable assets of more than $20 million be devoted to nonprofit use. In 2001, that nonprofit became Con Alma Health Foundation, the largest foundation in New Mexico dedicated solely to health. In 2002, Banner Health Systems, a nonprofit, sold Los Alamos Medical Center to Province HealthCare, a for-profit. The health care conversion proceeds of a combined $4.5 million established the Northern New Mexico Health Grant Group, which addresses the health needs of people in Los Alamos, Rio Arriba and northern Santa Fe Counties. It is a joint initiative of Con Alma Health Foundation and the Los Alamos Medical Center Hospital Auxiliary. Since established in late 2001, the permanent endowment of Con Alma has grown to $25 million and it has invested more than $11 million to help people in New Mexico improve their health. The Foundation also advocates for health policy and brings people and organizations together to find ways that everyone in our state can live a healthy life.
Since 2003, Northern New Mexico Health Grant Group has awarded 143 grants to 50 organizations, totaling $2,105,279.

In 2003, the Northern New Mexico Health Grant Group (NNMHGG) formed to support nonprofits in Los Alamos, Rio Arriba and northern Santa Fe counties. NNMHGG is a partnership between Con Alma Health Foundation and the Los Alamos Medical Center Hospital Auxiliary.

When the nonprofit Banner Health Systems sold Los Alamos Medical Center to a for-profit corporation, some of the proceeds of the sale were set aside to serve the unmet healthcare needs of the people who receive care from the Los Alamos Medical Center.

Over the past decade, NNMHGG has provided 50 nonprofits in the tri-county area with more than $2.1 million. This year we honor the work of the founding and current members of the Northern New Mexico Health Grant Group, and we look forward to more successful years partnering to help people lead healthy lives.

2013 Hero of Health

Juliana Anastasoff

In 2009, Con Alma Health Foundation began a tradition of recognizing individuals who have made extraordinary contributions to the health of their communities. Each year, we call for nominations for heroes honored at our annual Grantee Recognition Event.

The 2013 Hero of Health was Juliana Anastasoff, a Picuris-Peñasco Valley resident and University of New Mexico health extension rural officer in Northern NM, based in Taos. She was nominated by Dr. Arthur Kaufman, vice president for community health at the University of New Mexico.

As an advocate for her rural community, she helped build health infrastructure in northern NM, recruiting local health providers and supporting community health related initiatives. She also spearheaded an effort to bring mental health first aid training to local rural communities. In addition, she helped write a grant that led to Taos getting its first community health clinic primarily serving the uninsured.

In honor of the 2013 hero, Con Alma provided a $1,000 donation to the nonprofit of her choice, the New Mexico Acequia Association. This organization was chosen because of its strong focus on community health work – supporting communities around self-determination of their resources, promoting pride and the capacity of our youth to engage in traditional agricultural systems.
Con Alma Health Foundation’s assets go beyond the dollars with which it makes grants; Con Alma also brings people together and acts as a catalyst for positive, systemic change.

2013 Initiatives

Advancing Health Equity in New Mexico

Con Alma completed a two-year grant from the Kellogg Foundation designed to help Con Alma further its mission, advance health equity in New Mexico, and build Con Alma’s organizational capacity.

EngAGEment Initiative

This initiative, a partnership with the New Mexico Association of Grantmakers, ended in 2012. It was designed to promote an awareness of, and funding of, aging issues in New Mexico. Con Alma continued this work through 2013 to help implement the objectives that grew out of the original project.

Health Care Reform

In additional to grantwriting services Con Alma provided to the New Mexico Office of Health Care Reform to secure funding to help plan the Health Insurance Exchange, the Foundation also supported the following activities to support the implementation of health care reform in New Mexico:

1. Resource Team Reports
2. Health Care Reform Convenings
3. New Mexico Alliance of Health Councils
4. New Mexico Health Connections
5. Commissioned reports on The Economic Impact of ACA in NM, and Making Health Care Reform Work for Small Business in New Mexico (in partnership with the McCune Charitable Foundation)

Hispanics in Philanthropy

Con Alma partnered with the national Hispanics in Philanthropy and local funders on a Funders’ Collaborative for Strong Latino Organizations, a three-year initiative that awarded grants to Hispanic led or Hispanic serving nonprofits in New Mexico. Con Alma serves as the anchor foundation.

New Mexico Nursing Diversity Partnership Project

The project, completed in 2013, worked to strengthen and diversify the New Mexico nursing workforce. This initiative was a matching grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation and Northwest Health Foundation, with contributions from Con Alma Health Foundation, the New Mexico Board of Nursing, and St. Vincent Hospital Foundation.

Sustaining Impact Initiative

Con Alma received a technical assistance non-cash grant through the Sustaining Impact Initiative (SII), to help build the capacity and sustainability of nursing organizations in New Mexico.
Place Matters
Social determinants of health are the conditions in which people are born, grow up, work, play, and age. These include income levels, housing conditions and community safety, as well as access to medical care, quality food, education, and good public transportation.

We believe that the conditions in which people live influence their overall health – that the choices we make are limited by the choices we have. The Healthy People, Healthy Places Initiative aims to address inequities in local environments and to serve as a catalyst for systemic change to advance health equity.

“Where we live, learn, work and play can have a greater impact on how long and how well we live than medical care. …our zip code may be more important to our health than our genetic code.”

The Project
The goals of the Healthy People, Healthy Places Initiative are to:
• Promote equity and health by improving the built environment and access to healthy food, with a focus on low-income communities, rural communities, and communities of color
• Support the preservation and enhancement of cultural and spiritual assets in the community
• Develop capacity by creating a long-term commitment to equity-focused policy and environmental efforts

The project encourages collaboration among varied stakeholders and provides technical assistance, mini-grants, and targeted support for local endeavors. We have created a steering committee to identify and assist efforts to improve community infrastructure and healthy food access in New Mexico. We intend to bring together people from organizations throughout the state to foster a multi-sector approach to creating healthy communities. By working together, we hope to recognize, inspire, and learn from existing efforts and build upon them.

Moving Forward
Systemic change requires sustained effort. Through the Healthy People, Healthy Places Initiative, we hope to spur further discussion about the importance of place in health equity, and ultimately, changes in policies to support more equitable living situations for underserved populations.
Health Equity in New Mexico
Health equity is achieved when all individuals, regardless of their economic or social background, have the same access to quality health care and a chance at a better life. New Mexico lags significantly behind, particularly in rural areas, communities of color, and underserved populations such as the elderly, immigrants, border communities, and veterans.

- Hispanic and American Indian adults are over twice as likely to be without health insurance as whites
- More than one quarter of New Mexico’s immigrant population lives below the poverty line
- 21.2% of adults aged 60 and older are food insecure, one of the highest percentages in the nation
- The U.S.-Mexico border area ranks last in per capita income and first in the percentage of children uninsured
- Rural residents are nearly twice as likely to die from accidental injuries, in part due to longer emergency response times

Demographic trends show worsening health and equity indicators, as underserved populations continue to grow and resources are further stretched. Focusing on fundamentals such as prevention, nutrition, health promotion, and holistic health is crucial for tackling New Mexico’s health care challenges.
